Subject: Drumming For Your Life

Over the past couple of months the minors in Boys-Care have participated in Drumming for Your Life with John. It not only has kept them entertained, but has helped with their interaction with each other. We have a range of minors from ADHD, autistic to mentally and emotionally challenged. It has been a good escape and has been therapeutic as well. It is even a good avenue for their continued cooperation in the other unit programs. The minors have enjoyed each session and look forward to the next because they really have fun learning the beats and the challenging games that are presented.
